

Fringed Polygala

Milkwort Family

(Polygala paucifolia)

Fringed Polygala is a low dainty flower with two flaring rose-purple wings. The petals are united into a tube that is fringed at the tip. Flowers are few, growing in the leaf axils. It grows 3-6 inches high in moist woods, blooming in late spring and early summer. It is also called Gaywings or Maywings.

Native species.